STATE SEEKS TO SHOW CASH FUND NOT DEPOSITED

Assistant Treasurer Lyngstad Placed on Stand to Give Record of Receipts

ACCOUNTANT SAYS HALL WAS $4,217.35 SHORT

Declares Books October 22 Revealed Discrepancy—Many Witnesses Subpoenaed

That the state will seek to show that currency received in the automobile registration department of the secretary of state's office was not promptly deposited with the state treasurer, as required by law, was indicated by the line of questioning pursued this morning by Assistant Attorney General Daniel V. Brennan, who is conducting the prosecution of Secretary of State Thomas Hall, now undergoing preliminary examination on a charge of having embezzled approximately $2,000 of the state's money.

Lyngstad on Stand.

Deputy State Treasurer J. O. Lyngstad, the state's first witness, testified that from January 1 to October 22 the automobile registration department deposited $221.44 in currency and that from October 22 to November 9 currency deposited totaled $3,129.82.

He presented a record of recent deposits from the secretary of state's office, showing that on October 29 Thomas Hall had deposited with the state treasurer checks for $125 to Martin Thompson, $100 to Harold Wright, and $126.50 to E. M. Walla all of whom are employees of the secretary of state's office; $50 to John Steen and $50 made payable to cash, all drawn on a local bank. Of these checks aggregating $450.50, all were but the one drawn to cash, which was returned marked "Insufficient funds."

This check was taken up by the secretary of state, who exchanged currency for it. October 24, Lyngstad testified, the secretary of state deposited a check for $125 drawn on A. W. Carlson, another employee of the office, and October 22 a check for $32.50, payable to Martin Thompson.

Edwards Testified.

The receipts of the secretary of state's office from January 1 to October 22 were $210,321.82 and the amount deposited with the state treasurer $206,111.27, leaving an undeposited balance of $4,217.35 was the most important testimony which W. C. Edwards, deputy state bank examiner, had given up to noon, when adjournment was taken for lunch. An undeposited balance of $6,699.62 was indicated Aug. 16, said Edwards. The court room is crowded with witnesses, practically the entire capital staff having been subpoenaed.

NINTH DISTRICT QUOTA EXCEEDED BY $34,932,650

Minneapolis, Nov. 10.—There were 621,770 subscribers to the second Liberty loan in the 9th federal reserve district, and the district minimum quota was oversubscribed by $34,932,650 according to a statement issued by officers of the Federal Reserve bank here today.

The remarkable distribution of small denomination bonds is an especially desirable and valuable feature of the campaign," the statement said. "The total of 320,811 individuals, taking the smaller denomination bonds, indicated the bonds have gone into approximately 65 per cent of all homes in the district."

RUSSELL TO SPEAK HERE ON RUSSIANS

Charles Edward Russell, recently returned from Russia, where, as a member of the American commission, he made a thorough study of the Russian situation, will speak in Bismarck on November 21 under the auspices of the Bismarck Commercial club. Mr. Russell is touring the country under the auspices of the bureau of information, and he comes to Bismarck through the co-operation of the Chamber of commerce of the United States, at the solicitation of Secretary George N. Keniston.

WAGE SCALE FIXED.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—Ohio coal operators and representatives of miners in conference here have practically completed their task of readjusting the wage scale of the 16 mining districts of the state. The new scale becomes operative automatically. An eight hour work day and a flat increase of $1.40 a day for all adults employed in or around Ohio mines are provided.

Lyon Enters Hole in the Ground Where German's Hope Is Buried—Verdun

Daily Bismarck Tribune Correspondent puts his hand on the Heart of France and feels it Beating Strong—Read About the Message and Toast Which Made American Newspaper Man Forget the Drizzle Along The Meuse

EDITOR'S NOTE.—C. C. Lyon, Staff correspondent of the Daily Tribune is now spending some time with the French army, through the courtesy of the French military authorities. After observing operations in and about Verdun, he has been promised the chance to go into the first line French trenches. "If I come out with a whole skin I ought to have something very interesting to write about," says Lyon, in a letter to the editor of the Daily Tribune.

C. C. LYON.

With the French troops at Verdun I have just come from spending a wonderful evening in the impregnable citadel of Verdun, a guest of Colonel (—), its commander.

All day long a violent artillery duel had been on between the French and Germans, and every time our small party of American observers had tried to get near enough to the German lines beyond Forts Vaux and Douaumont to watch infantry operations a German shell would playfully fall in our vicinity and scare us all stiff.

Even the safety of Port Souville hardly reassured us. There we had all taken turns sitting in a chair that had been occupied a few days before by the King of Italy and singing our names in the "guest book."

Incidentally, Victor Emanuel gave his occupation as "King of Italy." I wrote "newspaper reporter" after my name. They're both on the same page.

Shortly after dinner hour we reached the Verdun citadel.

Outside, the night was inky black and adding to a dismal exterior picture, a cold drizzling rain was falling, chilling to the marrow the gray-overcoated sentinels who silently trudged their posts along the river Meuse.

But inside the fortress everything was warm and bright and cheerful.

The long, narrow, concrete-built corridors that stretched for hundreds of yards were studded with a thousand electric bulbs; and every room and compartment opening off them held a group of laughing, chatting poilus, enjoying their evening meal and talking over events of the day.

In little dining room in the heart of the fortress, a hundred feet below the earth's surface, Colonel (—) arose and, with uplifted glass, faced his American guests.

For a long time, around a table that had contained many good things to eat, he had been discussing the war situation and America's part.

As he stood there leaning upon the cane (one of his legs had been frozen as he personally led his troops in a midwinter assault on German positions outside Verdun) ready to propose a toast to the great and powerful ally he was a noble figure.

A large powerfully-built man of about 60; snow white hair; ruddy complexion; a jovial, kindly face with blue eyes that twinkled with merriment: a "something about him" that would inspire all men to deeds of valor.

On the wall behind him was hung a large bronze tablet—the imperishable motto of Verdun:

"On Ne Passe Pas!"

"They Shall Not Pass!"

There was a hushed silence:

"My dear friends from beyond the seas," he said, "I lift my glass to toast the nation that has always been the unfailing friend and ally of our beloved France."

"The bonds of love and sympathy that have always existed between our two countries will become still stronger, now that we are brothers in arms in the cause of world democracy."

"France has given unsparingly of its blood in making good the motto of Verdun. But the brave men who have died will not have died in vain, because, with rich, powerful resourceful and determined America on our side it is now impossible to conceive of anything but a complete victory for the allied cause."

"I drink to America and all Americans. France loves them all!"

The toast was drunk with deep emotion on both sides and appropriate responses from the Americans followed.

Through it all, however, my reporter instincts had not deserted me.

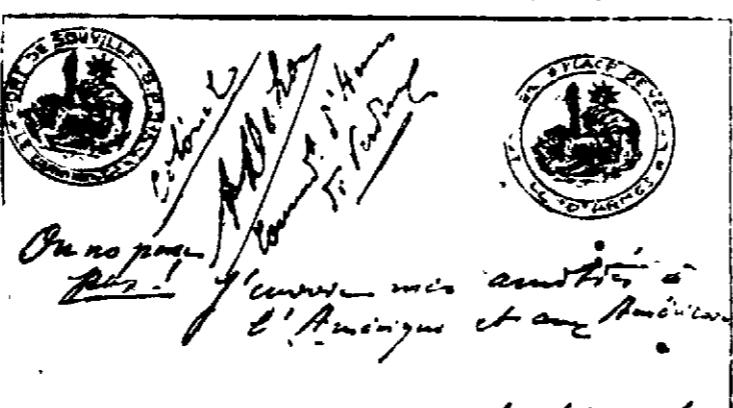

At Fort Souville, during the afternoon, the soft commander had given me, for a souvenir, one of his em-

WHEREABOUTS OF SCORES HURT "LIBERTY" POSSE AS FOG BLINDS VICTIMS UNKNOWN

Seventeen Naked Men, Tarred and Feathered. Roam Plains of Oklahoma

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Scores of persons were injured in railroad, streetcar and elevated collisions and other accidents due to a heavy fog here this morning. Their injuries mostly were of a slight nature. Twenty-five or more persons were injured in a rear end collision in the yards of the C. & A. railroad. In the densest fog, objects ten feet away were invisible.

A fireman on an Illinois suburban train was unable to see a danger signal and crashed into another suburban train normally traveling three minutes ahead of it. Charles Clinkenberg, engineer of the I. C. train in the rear, was thrown from the cab and his right leg amputated above the knee.

Two hundred passengers were shaken up, and a fireman M. Miller, was scalped. Six others were cared for at a hospital.

All trains were late, those from the most distant suburbs arriving from a hold to an hour and a half behind schedule. Small accidents to street cars and vehicles were numerous. At ten o'clock the fog was still so thick that office buildings were illuminated as if at night.

Eleven of the I. W. W. were arrested in a recent raid on state headquarters here. The other six had testified last night at the trials in city courts of their fellows. All were being taken by a round-about route to I. W. W. headquarters in three touring cars by city policemen, when they were halted by the black shrouded figures, who pointed rifles and pistols. The policemen had intended to exact from the I. W. W. a promise to leave the city and not to return, whereupon the prison sentences would have been suspended. That the plot to kidnap the I. W. W. had been carefully planned was indicated by the machine-like precision with which all details were carried out. The policemen in charge of the prisoners were offered no violence, but were forced to drive the motor cars to the rendezvous in a wild ravine near the edge of the city and to watch the "Knights, none of whom were recognized because of the robes. Later the street was placarded as follows:

"No ce to I. W. W. Don't let the sun set on you in Tulsa." Vigilance Committee

When the party arrived at the ravine, the cowed I. W. W. were ordered to strip to the waist. A circle of motor cars was drawn about a huge tree, and in the glare of the headlights, man after man was tied up and lashed on the back until the blood ran. Hot tar was then applied, and handfuls of feathers thrown into the tar. The I. W. W. talked but little to the policemen who were forced to witness the ceremony with an armed guard on both sides. Some claimed allegiance to the I. W. W. One cried for mercy and cried that he was not an I. W. W. but a "Knight" declared he had been arrested in the raid on the State Headquarters and he took his turn at the whipping post.

PARSHALL BEGINS REBUILDING WHILE EMBERS ARE WARM

Disastrous Fire Does not Dampen Courage of Progressive Rebuilder

Town

Parshall, N. D., Nov. 10.—Hardly were the embers of Parshall's fire-ravaged business district cooled when the work of reconstruction began. Taking advantage of the mild weather, C. J. Barth has commenced the erection of a one-story brick and tile store building on his own lot and has purchased from William Pojar the lot on which the Lalond restaurant stood, where he is building a structure which will be occupied by the Free Barber Shop, made homeless by the fire. Adjoining the Barth buildings Nels Hobson plans a structure of similar size.

F. M. Hovey will replace his building with one of brick, but does not expect to begin work until next spring. J. W. Brown and the Woods Bros also will build substantial brick blocks next summer on the sites which were occupied by frame structures which were completely destroyed in last Thursday's big fire.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—The British people will fight on until the Prussian war machine is crushed, if it takes a hundred years, declared James Lord, president of the mining department, American Federation of Labor, today on his return from the Inter-Allied Labor Conference at London.

"I am talking about the British workers particularly, as I met them at conferences in their homes and on the streets during my month's visit. Nobody can understand the spirit of the British workers unless he has lived among them as I did. There is no violent talk, they have simply set their teeth and are going to carry on until the great war is fought through to a decisive end. Like British bulldogs, they won't admit the possibility of defeat."

"There is no squawking" as they say, about anything. There is hardly a woman in Great Britain who has not lost a son, a brother, a husband or a lover; but though you can see the deep grief in their faces, you will hear no mourning and see no needless tears. You ask about some relative, some friend. "He went under at Ypres, of the Somme, or in Flanders, they will tell you; but never any morbid discussion of how he died or of the heavy burden his death has thrown upon the family. "What has been, has been," they feel and no amount of weeping or mourning counts. "He's gone under," they say, and no man has the heart to question further.

LENINE NEW PREMIER OF PEACE REGIME

Trotzky Who Helped Coup D'Etat Foreign Minister in Reorganized Cabinet

LAND COMMITTEE TO REDISTRIBUTE ESTATES

Advisers of Revolutionists Number Among Them a Sailor and Laborer

Petrograd, Nov. 10.—The all-Russian congress of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates has reported officially to Lenin and a cabinet, composed of Bolsheviks, and then adjourned. The cabinet is headed by Nikolai Lenin, as Premier, and Leon Trotzky, holds the post of foreign minister.

The cabinet will serve until the constituent assembly approves it or selects a new one. In addition to Lenin and Trotzky, the other members are reported to be as follows:

New Cabinet

Minister of the Interior, M. Rikoff; Minister of Finance, M. Sverdloff; Minister of Agriculture, M. Milutin; Minister of Labor, M. Sintopnikoff; Committee on war and marines, M. Ovsiannikoff; Krylenko and Bibenkov; Minister of Commerce, M. Nogin; Minister of Education, M. Lunacharsky; Minister of Justice, M. Orlov; Minister of Supplies, M. Thethorovitch; Minister of Posts and Telegraph, M. Avilov; Minister of Affairs and Nationalities (a new post in charge of the different nationalities within Russia), M. Dzubashvili; Minister of Communications, M. Riazonoff.

The cabinet members are all Bolsheviks, Bibenkov is a Kronstadt sailor, while Shliapnikoff is a laborer.

Trotzky announced that the socialist members of the Kerensky cabinet would be released from the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul pending an investigation. He said the others would be held.

The Congress took action to turn over to the land committees for distribution, the land estate and estate of church lands. The lands of the Cossacks and peasants will not be confiscated. The banks of Petrograd reopened today. The city is quiet.

AMERICANS SAFE.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The first report from American Ambassador Francis on the upheavals in Russia arrived today but added nothing to the news dispatches already received.

The ambassador's dispatch filed on Nov. 7 and Nov. 8, said that up to that time all the ministers of the provisional government, except Kerensky, had been arrested.

American representatives of the American Red Cross in Petrograd were safe, and no mention made of any harm befalling any other Americans.

Although the city was quiet, when the ambassador sent his report he indicated that it was done too early to secure a definite idea of conditions, especially outside the capital.

Until the situation has been more clearly defined, there will continue a practical suspension of official relations with Russia. It was explained today that to continue negotiations now was impossible, because it is not known just who is in power in the different departments.

To obtain information from the country beyond the limits of Petrograd, Mr. Francis reported, was next to impossible, because the wires were all in control of the Bolsheviks.

An encouraging enthusiasm on the part of progressive students was reported by all committee-men.

on that the present Russian leaders will refuse to continue the war. It is believed in Berlin that Germany will be compelled to offer terms of peace to the Allies of Russia before the end of next week.

NEW REGIME SETTLED

London, Nov. 9.—The Allies have agreed to a plan and soldiers' congress, which is endeavoring to select the basis of authority that it has wrested successfully from the tsar. The committee is setting about to evict its power all over Russia and bring about an early conclusion to the war. The congress has already voted to command him to form a council of various departments during their institution of a permanent government.

The revolutionary committee has arranged a search for Premier Kerensky.

It has issued a series of orders that will be taken by other measures to further its control. The congress has also issued a decree to the military and the rich who profited from their rule.

The delegates are deliberating over the proposal of an immediate armistice and a people's democratic peace and land and industrial reform.

Troops Join Revolt.

Petrograd, Nov. 9.—At the Smolny Institute the American Press was informed that two detachments of troops, loaded for Petrograd in response to an early appeal from former Premier Kerensky, were met outside the city by commissioners and persuaded to return to the front. The correspondent also was informed that the armies on the northern front had elected a revolution committee which declared its support of the congress.

A delegation from the seventh army, which arrived in Petrograd Wednesday, has joined the revolted garrison.

A French officer, it is reported, was wounded during Wednesday night's action. The losses of the workers and soldiers' organization are said to be one sailor killed and several wounded.

VIRTUALLY NO DAMAGE.

Petrograd, Nov. 9.—She bullets that spattered the winter palace, the only ocular sign of the remarkable transference of power that has taken place in Petrograd, drew tens of thousands of the curious among the populace to the vicinity of the structure today. Nowhere else in the whole city has the revolution left its war mark. The winter palace carried no marks of last night's battle which a coat of paint and new window panes would not hide from casual observation. A close inspection of the river front facade was prevented by the sailor guards posted on the palace quay, but from the nearby palace bridge it could plainly be seen that the heavy guns of the cruiser, which bombarded the palace, shawing the town during several hours of the night, unaccountably had done virtually no damage.

Evidence of Machine Guns.

On the land side, however, there is plentiful evidence of the work done by the machine guns and rifles during the struggle. The red walls are streaked with white discs marking hits. Scarred a window pane it with bullet holes.

Surrounding streets were fired all day with pistol, shotgun and rifle fire. In the Nevy sky, where yesterday there were many guns and armored cars and infantry, sound whistled barrages today were to be seen only the usual throngs of the populace, and there was no excitement among them. Where armored cars had sped by on their way to the winter palace before the attack, blocks of peasants in the streets with no who had bullets to disturb them.

Wounded Among Crowds.

On one of the street crowds there was an occasional bandaged sailor who evidently had been wounded during last night's fighting. In an apartment, a mile beyond the palace, a shell, evidently from a gun of the fortress or the cruiser, had gone through the roof, apparently spent. It landed on a table in the living room but did not explode.

Soldiers, grave but cheerful, were assuming control of various districts. They sat in barracks at the committee room listening to complaints and issuing passes. The murmur of rifles and the clattering of machine guns, with the occasional boom of cannon from the fortress or a cruiser, which had continued from early last night until the palace surrendered, had been supplanted by the laughter and shouts of school boys dismissed from classes and playing in the plazas.

WOMAN CHOSEN COMMISSIONER.

Petrograd, Nov. 9.—At the Smolny Institute it was announced today that among the commissioners chosen by the revolutionary committee was one woman, Miss Kollontay, who has been placed temporarily in charge of the department of public welfare. Mark Uritsky, commissary of foreign affairs, is the official with whom the foreign embassies now must deal.

Nikolai Lenin, the Maximilist leader, who wears workingman's garb, during the sessions of the congress on a raised platform with Leon Trotsky, president of the executive committee of the Petrograd delegates, and other Bolshevik leaders. Last night they outlined the aims and decisions of the military revolutionary committee as follows:

The abolition of capital punishment, the immediate release of all soldiers arrested by the Kerensky government for political offenses, all members of the Kerensky government to be arrested, and all the revolutionary committees to arrest Kerensky himself and to punish those aiding him to escape."

Lenine Talks of Peace.

"We must take practical measures immediately to effect the promises given by the Bolshevik party," Lenin said. "The question of peace is a burning one today, therefore the first act of the new government which is to be formed is to offer to all nations a democratic peace based on no annexations and no indemnity. Such a peace is to be concluded not by diplomacy, but by the representatives of the people."

Lenine explained that by annexation he meant the forcible seizure of any territory in the past or the present without consent of the people. He asserted that all secret treaties meant to benefit the Bourgeoisie must be published and voided to benefit all.

"We plan to offer an immediate armistice of three months," he declared, "during which there shall be selected representatives of all the nations, not diplomats, who are to settle the question of peace. We will offer these terms, but are willing to consider any proposals of peace no matter from which side."

"We offer a just peace, but we will not accept unjust terms. This war cannot be ended by one side only."

Artillery Protects Smolny Institute.

There were machine guns and a field piece and a strong guard of infantry protecting the three-story building in which the workers' and soldiers' congress is meeting. The spacious commencement room of the Smolny Institute was crowded with delegates and soldiers predominating. There also were a number of sailors. Those among the peasant delegates seated among the students.

The audience wore an expectant, earnest air. Though many factions of the socialists are represented, there was no grouping of seats to the left or right. On the platform, Leon Trotsky was seated, carefully groomed, smiling and triumphant. Nikolai Lenin, quiet, reserved and studious, was beside him. Near them was Madame Kollontay, young, attractive and earnest. The others of the present controlling government of Petrograd were grouped about them.

ADMIRAL CONDEMS REVOLT.

A Pacific Fleet says Admiral Koltschek, former commander of the Russian Baltic fleet and head of a Russian naval commission that has been consulting in Washington with government officials, for several weeks, said today that he and his fellow commissioners would in no case support the Lenin government, but would report to the government represented by Kerensky on reaching Russia.

He believes this is only another transitory event, he said in reference to the Petrograd revolution, "and think all right-minded Russians will soon come to their senses."

The admiral added that he felt convinced that this was not the end of Kerensky's government by any means.

WE SHOULD WORRY SEEKS RUSSIAN'S VIEW OF CRISIS

Member of Mission Here Investigating Coal Industry Says

GOVERNMENT STILL EXISTS.

PLANS TO MAKE REPORT ON LIGNITE PROCESSES

A Russian government still exists.

The authority for this statement is Avenir A. Snietskoff, who arrived in Bismarck yesterday as a member of the special Russian mission to the United States.

"I am representing the Russian government in an investigation of the lignite mining processes of the United States," Mr. Snietskoff said in response to a reporter's query.

The Kerensky government?"

"I see by the morning papers there is no Kerensky government. I represent the republican government of Russia—that is the government, no matter who may be at the head of it."

Until a day or two ago Mr. Snietskoff represented the Kerensky government. He seems unperturbed over the recent change in the administration of Russia. He discussed the matter through his secretary and interpreter, Alexander W. Stephanoff, with a smile.

Goes to Wilton.

Today Mr. Snietskoff and his secretary are in Wilton, where several days will be spent in investigating North Dakota's largest lignite coal mine. Later the Russian representatives will visit the ligniting plants at New Salem, Scranton, Minot and elsewhere in the state.

"Russia has millions of tons of lignite," said Mr. Snietskoff. "No attempt ever has been made properly to develop it. This we hope to do. We are looking to America for modern methods. The Cologne fields in Germany being closed to us at present I am a member of a special mission of three to the United States, and myself am a member of the geological committee at Petrograd. In this country we work more or less directly under instructions from the Russian embassy at Washington."

Looks Like Scholar.

Mr. Snietskoff does not measure up to the popular conception of a Russian. He is of medium height, but very powerfully built, and he at once conveys the impression of limitless energy and force. In conversation, while he speaks no English, his features are so expressive that one has little difficulty in following him. One carries away the conviction that if new Russia had many men of his calibre it could not be in its present predicament.

Ignores Politics.

Mr. Snietskoff smilingly declined to discuss politics.

"I know only what I have read in the papers," he said in response to a question for his views on the most recent development. "I am not in a position to say anything except that the republic of Russia still exists, and I represent its government."

Russia apparently is looking to America as a pattern in many things. It already has borrowed some of America's best executives to revise its railroad system. It is investigating American mining in all its details, through the mission of which Mr. Snietskoff is a member, and the intention is that other missions will come to familiarize themselves with other features of American industry and commerce.

Takes It Easy.

The one outstanding feature of Mr. Snietskoff's attitude toward the crisis in his native land is the complacency with which he regards the most recent developments. Were he a thoroughgoing American, his comment might be, "We should worry."

The Russian visitors while in the city made the McKenzie their headquarters.

First Direct Move of the Government to Conserve the Fuel Supply.

BROADWAY'S BRIGHT LIGHTS TO DISAPPEAR

Washington, Nov 10.—The government's first move toward eliminating non-essential industries to save coal was made tonight in an order by the fuel administration limiting the use of fuel for electric display advertising to the hours between 7:45 and 11 o'clock p.m. A score of other industries will be affected by similar orders that will be issued as soon as a complete classification is made.

Faced by the realization that coal production cannot keep pace with the present rate of consumption, the administration is ready, if necessary, to guarantee supplies for domestic purposes and industries either necessary in the conduct of the war or vital to the public.

It is estimated that the limiting of electric advertising to three and a quarter hours each night will save 50 per cent of the fuel now used in maintaining the signs that light Broadway in New York city and hundreds of less famous thoroughfares in towns throughout the country. In a statement accompanying today's order the intimation is carried that it may become necessary to eliminate electric signs altogether.

Exception was made in the order for signs maintained by small merchants for the purpose of directing the public to places of business. If these are not of unreasonable size they will be permitted to continue lighted while the establishments are open for business, but must be dark with the closing of the shops.

Experts say that about 250,000 tons of coal are used annually for the operation of display signs. This amount, it is estimated, would keep 100,000 families warm during the winter months.

"Although the fuel administration is anxious to avoid interference with legitimate business just as far as possible," says the statement accompanying the order, "it is determined that the industries essential to the war and the domestic consumers of the country shall be protected."

A committee of gas and electric service companies co-operated with the fuel administration in framing the order.

COKE PRICES FIXED.

Washington, Nov 10—Coke prices for the entire country were fixed by the fuel administration today in a ruling confirming the price of $6 a ton set by the war industry board for Connellsburg coke in an agreement with steel producers. In fixing coal prices the fuel administration had passed over coke, but many inquiries as to what the price should be outside of Connellsburg drew forth the ruling.

AMERICAN WORKING MAN TELLS

"And you mustn't squawk if little things go wrong. Suppose the bus is held up or the train is crowded—I never had a seat on the train while I was in England—and you begin to grumble. It won't be a minute till somebody in the crowd cuts in. 'Look here, wot right 'ave you to be skuawking?' If you were in the trenches now, you might 'ave something to squawk about."

"How are the people looking, Jim, after three years of it?" I asked.

"Nighy fine, everything considered.

Of course with all the young men at the front and the streets and parks full of wounded, the war is always before your eyes; but the men left to do the work and the women, particularly the women, are looking strong and full of energy. I never saw finer looking women and girls.

British working women are being better fed and better treated than they ever were before. They are all at work, most of them get the same wages as the men whose jobs they took. And best of all, they are free to live and act like real people for the first time in their lives. They are doing the nation's work, and they know it. They hold their heads up and look you straight in the eye.

"Besides, the food situation isn't nearly as bad as I expected to find it.

You don't get all the bread you want, and you can't get any more sugar than your allowance, but you get enough.

"The biggest element in holding down the cost of living in Great Britain is the great system of cooperative stores, the biggest and most wonderful business institution in the world. We need the same thing over here."

"The strangest thing in London are the nights. After sunset not a light is permitted to show. The whole city is pitch dark, and yet the streets are full of people. Up and down they go, on the sidewalks and in the middle of the road. Here goes a soldier and his girl, their arms around each other.

Nobody notices. There comes a group of four sailors with their girls, mildly hilarious as they take the whole middle of the road. Everybody clears the path and lets them go on their way rejoicing, for they feel that the men home from the trenches or from the sea are entitled to get the most out of life while they may.

"And yet with all the darkness and all the freedom, the streets are safe, for a girl alone than they ever were in peace times. It isn't the police that make them safe—it's the people. If a man accosts a girl on a London street, and she gives him a sharp answer, it won't be half a minute before a dozen people are along side. 'Don't you want to go with the bloke?' they'll say.

"'No! Well, then, get along with you there, and leave the girl alone. Can't you see she wants none o' the likes

o' you?'

"British fair play rules everywhere.

You can say what you like and do what you like as long as you don't interfere with anyone else. Hyde Park is as full of soap-box orators and nuts

as ever. Here's a chap giving King

George 'what for,' there's a soap-boxer ripping the hide off Lloyd George.

There are hecklers everywhere, but nobody interferes, unless it reaches the point of actual interference with the conduct of the war."

"How about the air raids in London, Jim? Are they as bad as the papers say?" I asked.

"Worse. You can't imagine it. And you can't exaggerate the fierceness of the Hun airmen. They are after the hospitals and the big tenements, because they figure the wounded and the congested tenement dwellers have the poorest chance to escape. Take

Marlborough hospital near the Strand, for example. Raid after raid has centered on it until the buildings all around have been blown to bits. Not much luck has saved the hundreds of sick and wounded who helpless on its cots.

"It's a bright moonlit night and the London streets are full of people.

Suddenly you hear the great sirens and the boom of the barrage fire. You know the Huns are coming. 'Get under 'cover' is the cry and you rush to the nearest place underground.

Every basement in London is open,

but you get in the subways if you can, for that is safest. You see, there is danger not only from the bombs,

but even more from the barrage fire of the anti-aircraft guns. Shrapnel is likely to fall anywhere.

"In the subways you find the stations and platforms jammed. During all-night raids you will see men, women and children sleeping as they stand waiting for the signal that danger is past. But except for the occasional breakdowns of nervous people, some of whom fall into uncontrollable weeping, some into convulsions, when they

"Thirty" Sounds For Little Mac, Pioneer Publisher of Dakota

News of the death of J. W. McLeod, cheerfully assured his friends he soon would be at the helm once more.

Was Real Pioneer.

In the North Dakota fourth estate, "Little Mac" was a real pioneer. He published the first issue of the Pioneer in August, 1889, and he had been responsible for the successful launching of good newspapers in many other North Dakota towns. It was "Little Mac" and his facile pen more than any other agency which put Stanley on the map. Several years ago he purchased The Hustler at Flasher and set about making it one of the best weekly publications in North Dakota.

"Little Mac" was a brilliant writer, a fine fellow and a splendid citizen. Working with him, side by side, Mrs. McLeod shared in his newspaper success, and she was with him at Stanley when the Supreme Editor inscribed "GO" across Little Mac's last take. J. K. McLeod's passing will be sincerely mourned by everyone who ever has had the privilege of knowing him.

people would appreciate a written greeting from you."

"It will be a great pleasure." And on the envelope he wrote under his name, Colonel ( ), commandant of the army of Verdun. "They shall not pass." "Send my kindest regards to America and the American people." To Mr. C. Lyon.

"I'd better put the official stamp of Verdun on this or somebody might say it was not genuine," he laughed.

We were about to take leave when the Colonel had a happy thought. "I'd love to hear you sing the 'Star Spangled Banner,'" he said.

In another room was a little old piano that had weathered all the bloody storm. But not one of us Americans could play a note.

We got through the first verse in fine style, but there was a good deal of humming and "la, la's" toward the end of the second.

The way the Frenchman then sang their own national hymn made us Americans ashamed of ourselves.

100 YEARS OLD

"The kidneys play a most important part in causing premature old age and death—the more injurious the poisons passing through the kidneys the sooner comes decay"—so says a distinguished physician, who further advises all people who are past thirty to preserve the vitality of the kidneys and free the blood from poisonous elements, such as uric acid—to drink plenty of pure water—sweat some every day and take Anuric before meals.

This Anuric is put up in tablet form, and can be obtained at almost any drug store. For that backache, lumbago, rheumatism, "rusty" joints, swollen feet and hands, due to uric acid in the blood, you will find Anuric quickly dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar. It was discovered by Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y.

Prevent premature old age by taking a little Anuric before meals and live to a hundred.

THORNE TAKES DIRECT ISSUE WITH OFFICIAL

Representative of Shippers Writes Letter Contradicting John Skelton Williams.

CHALLENGES ASSERTIONS OF THE COMPTROLLER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Clifford Thorne, representing livestock, grain and oil shippers before the Interstate commerce commission in the reopened 15 per cent advance rate case, made public tonight a letter to John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, taking issue with a recent statement by the comptroller supporting the efforts of the railroads to obtain higher rates. He challenged assertions of the comptroller, and dared him to appear before the commission and question the accuracy of statement of fact offered there in behalf of the shippers opposing the advance.

"In regard to the value of our railroads as reflected in the market-prices on securities," says Mr. Thorne in his letter, "you are quoted as saying that railroad securities have sustained the heaviest shrinkages, and that they have been the leaders in the downward movement of values. I challenge that statement as untrue. If you have facts to substantiate such a claim it is your duty to present them to the Interstate commerce commission, but you know that you dare not attempt to testify to such a statement under oath on the witness stand."

No Evidence of Claim.

"There is not an iota of evidence in support of your claim that has been offered by the railroads or any hiring of the railroads, in this proceeding. The facts are precisely the opposite of what you claim and we are going to prove it. If you doubt this invite your attendance at the hearing next Friday before the Interstate Commerce commission and I dare the question of the accuracy of a solitary statement of fact that will be offered on behalf of the national organizations of livestock shippers, grain shippers, and the independent oil men of the United States who are fighting this advance. These organizations have an aggregate membership of over a million shippers."

"They are entitled to a respectful hearing before a tribunal not subjected to pressure or outside influences. Unless you can substantiate these statements on the witness stand, under cross examination, your statements are not entitled to the confidence either of this commission or the American people."

Security Decline Small.

"Representative railroad securities as a class have declined in value at a less rate than those of industrials, public utilities, or even bonds of the United States government. There is a world wide financial situation that has affected the borrowing power of all men and of all nations. The decline in security values is not due to inadequate railroad credit or inadequate railroad earnings; it is due to the war. You must know that fact to be true."

"This great human catastrophe, that is paralyzing so many manufacturing and industrial enterprises not directly connected with the making of war munitions, has entirely failed to injure our railroads, for the record, when completed, will show that the railroads during the past two years, while this great struggle has been waging, have prospered better than during any other year since the steam engine was invented."

Williams Makes Reply.

In a statement tonight commenting on the Thorne letter, Controller Williams declared that his original statement was issued in the interest of the national banks.

"Our national banks, which are under the supervision of this office," he said, "are large holders of high grade

GREATEST FOOTBALL TEAM IN THE WORLD!

NEWPORT NAVAL TRAINING SCHOOL TEAM IS ALL-AMERICAN AGGREGATION

By PAUL PURMAN.

The greatest football team in the world!

That's what eastern critics are saying about the wonderful gridiron machine developed by ex-Champion Cupid Black of Yale, among his comrades at arms at the Newport naval station.

Four members of Walter Camp's All-American teams, two former All-Western men and other stars of scintillating brilliance make up the team.

The All-Americans are Black, himself, who will play left guard and captain the outfit; Schlachter of Syracuse, who will play right guard, Gerish of Dartmouth, a halfback, and Charley Barrett, the greatest backfield man ever produced at Cornell will play the other half.

Hite, Kentucky University, quarterback; Gardner, Nebraska, fullback.

The team likely will be coached with Yale tactics, as Walter Camp will be head coach and he will be assisted by Black, who last year was regarded as one of the smartest players in football.

Black was educated in the football school of Jimmie Sheldon and Ted Jones and what he learned of these two geniuses he learned right.

A number of the men on this navy team were captains of their college teams before they joined government service and in addition to having speed, strength and courage, the team will be replete with football brains.

There have perhaps been stronger teams organized—probably some of the all-star aggregations built up in the Ohio professional league have contained more stars, but those Ohio teams had scarcely any practice and were compelled to rely on individual play to win.

This navy team, however, will have plenty of practice and will build up a system of team work that will be hard to rival.

For this reason, perhaps it is not amiss to call it the "greatest football team ever put on the field!"

MINOT HIGH TACKLES WILLISTON IN GAME OF SEASON TOMORROW

Minot, N. D., Nov. 10.—The Minot high school football team will have its hardest 1917 task on its hands when the team takes on Williston high school here this afternoon. The locals walked all over Rugby last Saturday and are determined to give Williston a stiff battle for the honors. The Williston team is recognized as strong in view of the defeat handed to Fargo by Williston last Saturday. Last year Minot battled almost a full game to a 0-0 tie when the game ended in a row. A record crowd of Minoters will be out to cheer the locals to an expected and much hoped for victory.

INTERESTING PROGRAM OF GRIDIRON BATTLES SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

An interesting program of gridiron battles has been scheduled for today. Games of importance in the races for championships or as indicating the merits of various teams are on the chart.

South Dakota, whose men have played an extremely hard schedule, faces Iowa on the Hawkeye home grounds, and a bitter fight is expected to result though each team has suffered defeat. Comparative scores admitted an unreliable basis of estimating relative strength, indicate on their face value that Iowa has the better chance of victory. As Notre Dame beat South Dakota 48 to 0 and tied Wisconsin which beat Iowa 20 to 0.

North Dakota, which succumbed to the Fargo Aggies last Saturday is slated for a tough combat at Omaha with Creighton. The latter school usually represented by a strong squad, is given credit for a good team this year, though the apparently weak Nebraska Wesleyan held Creighton to 34 points last week.

In the campaign for Minnesota collegiate title, Carleton meets Hamline and St. Thomas takes on Macalester. Alfredy Carleton has beaten the Macs and Cadets have disposed of Hamline and predictions are that Carleton and St. Thomas will come through with clean slate today and their battle Nov. 17 will be decisive.

The Gophers spent the day getting ready for the annual game with Chicago next Saturday. The North and South Dakota Aggies also have vacant dates and made plans to clash at Brookings next Friday.

When the Skin Seems Ablaze With Itching and Burning

If your skin seems ablaze with the fiery burning and itching of Eczema, real and lasting relief can only come from treatment that goes below the surface—that reaches down to the very source of the trouble. So-called skin-diseases come from a disordered condition of the blood, and the proper treatment is through the blood.

Search far and near, and you can not find a blood remedy that approaches S. S. S. for real efficiency. It has been on the market for fifty years, during which time it has been giving uniform satisfaction for all manner of blood disorders. If you want prompt and lasting relief, you can rely upon S. S. # ITALIAN ARMY STILL RETIRES IN GOOD ORDER

Italian Army Continues to Draw in Its Lines Toward an Unknown Objective.

CADORNA REMOVED FROM THE SUPREME COMMAND

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The revolutionary element under Nikolai Lenin continues to hold the Russian capital, but with the attitude of the Russian soldiers on the various fronts regarding its assumption of power still unknown.

The Italian armies continue their retreat across the Venetian plains toward the Piave river, where it is expected a stand will be made, aided by reinforcements from the British and French armies and a suddenly formed military command which is to work in conjunction with a permanent inter-allied conference of military officers.

General Cadorna has been removed from his supreme command of the Italian armies, and given a post on the inter-allied conference, the other members of which will be the noted French general, Foch, and General Wilson, sub-chief of the British general staff. General Diaz has been placed in chief command of the Italians.

The reports from Russia still remain meager, but those that are drifting through indicate that Lenin and his followers, including the congress of workmen's and soldiers' delegates, are desirous of a cessation of hostilities for three months in order that efforts may be concentrated upon bringing about peace.

With the telegraph lines in the hands of the Bolsheviks it is natural to presume that all communications emanating from Petrograd lean toward Lenin and his faction and their ambitions, but advices from official and semi-official Russian quarters in Europe and the United States tend to lessen the apparent gravity of the situation and to indicate that order will be brought out of the prevailing chaos at no distant date.

Contradictory rumors continue to circulate as to the whereabouts of Premier Kerensky, it having been reported that he was under arrest and being taken back to Petrograd for trial by court martial and also that he was continuing his journey toward the front in an endeavor to strengthen the morale of the troops and put down the revolt.

Various members of the Kerensky cabinet are still incarcerated in the Fortress of St. Peter of St. Paul in Petrograd, and it is reported that General Korniloff, former commander in chief of the Russian forces, who has been under arrest for some time, also is being taken thither for trial in connection with the previous revolt.

Meanwhile, it is stated that Petrograd has returned to a normal state, so far as the civilian population is concerned. The casualties during the bombardment of the winter palace and as a result of the street fighting in the capital Tuesday night and Wednesday morning were relatively small.

There has been little activity on the western front in France and Belgium, except in the nature of reciprocal bombardments and small raiding operations.

In Palestine the British forces have gained a notable victory over the Turks, who are in retreat along the entire front, with British and French war vessels harrassing them from the Mediterranean and airmen bombing their following columns. More than 40 guns have been taken from the enemy.

MESSAGE FROM THE ADMIRALTY

London, Nov. 9.—The British admiral, replying to the German secretary of the navy's criticism of the recent speech in the house of commons by Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, said:

"The world knows from the Cattagat events that the royal navy is waiting for the high seas fleet, which still continues to decline battle. No German war vessel larger than a destroyer has shown itself to us 12½ miles west of Helgoland from August, 1916, to September, 1917, when two light cruisers attacked a Scandinavian convoy."

The reference to the Cattagat in the above dispatch deals with the sinking by British warships of the German auxiliary cruiser Marie and 10 other armed patrol craft, while that concerning the attack by two German light cruisers on a Scandinavian convoy evidently refers to the sinking of nine neutral vessels and two British escorting torpedo boat destroyers in October in the North sea.

WAR WILL LAST LONG.

London, Nov. 9.—Admiral Baron Bredtord tonight said he believed the war would be a long one. While his position was serious in regard to Russia and Italy there was no need of pessimism, he declared, because the position was not serious in the west where "we are going to win the war."

The government, he asserted, should tell the people the truth and get rid of the secrecy which so far has been a feature of the proceedings. The submarine menace never would bring Britain to her knees, he concluded, but the country would have difficulty in regard to food in the coming spring.

GERMANS TAKE ALAND.

Copenhagen, Nov. 9.—German soldiers landed Thursday on the island of Aland in the Baltic sea and occupied the greater part of the island group, according to a dispatch from Trelleborg to the Stockholm Nya Dagblatt Allehanda.

Dure Tells of Weapon of Safety

British Officer Tells of a Device Now Employed to Meet the Submarine Peril.

TRANSPORTS WILL PASS

DANGER ZONE SAFELY

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—Apprehension that the German submarine is going to menace the American army when it is sent overseas are unwaranted in the opinion of Lieut. E. J. Dure of the British navy, who arrived in Minneapolis today on a British mission for the Canadian government. He brought news of an anti-submarine device, the nature of which is being carefully guarded, but which, in his opinion, will safeguard American transports and merchant vessels from the undersea boats.

"Through the co-operation of the American and British navies the American troops will be transported as safely as the millions of British men in the service already have been carried across," Lieut. Dure said. "The German submarine already is under control. With the latest device the submarine will not have a chance."

CABINET VIEWS RUSSIANS CRISIS WITHOUT ALARM

Upheaval Will Not Change Attitude of American Government Toward Republic.

RUSSIAN STABILITY IS BASIS OF CONFIDENCE

Washington, Nov. 10.—Russia's latest upheaval will not change the attitude of the American government toward measures under way for the relief of economic conditions in the demoralized country. This statement placed with money borrowed from applying particularly to contracts placed with money borrowed from the United States for vast quantities of shoes and clothing for the civilian population, was the only authorized comment at the state department today upon the overthrow of the Kerensky government at Petrograd.

Official advices from the Russian capital still are lacking, no word having been received from Ambassador Francis since Tuesday. Apparently the British and French governments have not heard from their representatives, so it is assumed that the revolutionists in control of the Petrograd telegraphs and cables are holding up all diplomatic dispatches, an action certain to draw strong protests.

Cabinet Considers Resolution.

The situation was discussed at today's cabinet meeting. A cable received during the day from minister Morris at Stockholm summarizing dispatches printed in the Swedish newspapers similar to those published here, showed that even the Scandinavian countries are getting no news of what is transpiring in Russia except through the controlled agencies at Petrograd.

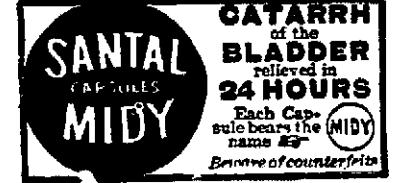

Until the situation clears the state department and war department will make no announcement as to the probable effect of the change at Petrograd upon the relations of the United States with Russia and the conduct of the war against Germany. It is apparent, however, that there is still a lingering hope that the revolution may be localized in Petrograd and that Kerensky may escape to rally around him the elements necessary to re-establish his government at Moscow or some other point.

Stable Government Will Come.

Failing in this, some administration officials are confident that out of the chaos will emerge a sound and stable government. Secretary Baker voiced this opinion.

"I am a great believer," he said "in the ability of the Russian people to re-establish themselves. If there is anything to be learned by history it is that a great people like the Russians will be able to find themselves that order and liberty go hand in hand. The Russians being a great people, whatever their present difficulties, will eventually establish their government in a proper and orderly way."
